The names listed as members of the cast for the Pageant are not nearly complete. Selection of the cast was in progress when it was necessary to go to press with this historical booklet so that many who will have prominent parts are not named.

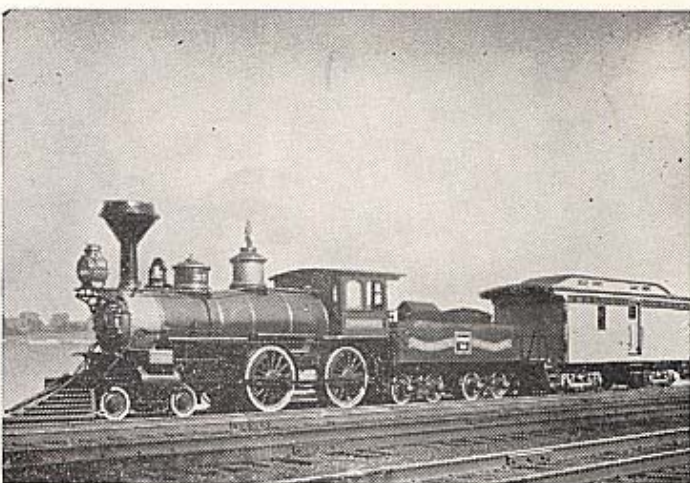

The Centennial Association deeply regrets this omission, but in order to get the book completed by the opening of the Centennial, it was necessary to go to press without delay.

This is the Dobyys Lumber Co., as it appeared in 1905. The building stood just where the one today does.

Old Business Houses—The first Miller Furniture Store, erected in 1866, stood where Dr. J. H. Tomei's office is now located.

This locomotive and coach are similar to the early trains running over The Hannibal & St. Joe R. R. through Shelbina.
